BUILDING ACCESS, BUILDING COMMUNITY

CAMP Headquarters & Veterinary Training Annex

Capital Campaign

www.campLA.org

CAMP HQ is more than just a building.
It is a community anchor and a community asset.

Our Vision

Community Animal Medicine Project (CAMP), a Los Angeles based nonprofit 501(c)(3) dedicated to improving animal welfare, is building a state-of-the-art veterinary clinic and Veterinary Training Project facility, housed under one roof.

With an equitable development plan to support affordability, accessibility, and inclusivity, our vision is to improve health, increase safety, and provide education while securing the future of high-quality, low-cost veterinary care in Los Angeles.

With the purchase of our new building in Central Los Angeles, CAMP has laid the foundation for lasting impact. This investment secures our independence and anchors our role as a cornerstone of compassionate, community-based veterinary care for generations to come. Our high-capacity veterinary hospital and training facility will provide low- and no-cost spay/neuter and community animal medicine services to approximately 20,000 dogs and cats annually.

CAMP's life-saving veterinary services include wound care, fecal and blood tests, treatment for infections, abscess treatment, dental cleaning and surgery, mass removal and biopsy, X-ray and treatment of broken bones, amputations and humane euthanasia. Every community needs access to essential veterinary care, and CAMP offers these services at approximately 80% lower than fees at private veterinarians.

About CAMP

Over the past few decades, CAMP (formerly known as SNPLA) has set the standard for accessible, high-quality, low-cost spay/neuter services and community animal medicine (standard veterinary care) in Los Angeles. Strategically located in historically excluded communities, our six brick-and-mortar clinics and two mobile units are staffed by teams who are 90% bilingual Spanish-speaking, trained to welcome clients with empathy and sensitivity. Since opening our doors, we have spayed and neutered over 350,000 dogs and cats and have grown to provide veterinary care to more than 95,000 pets each year.

Why We're Expanding Our Reach: Barriers to Care

Two major barriers prevent families from accessing the veterinary care their pets need: rising costs of services and a nationwide shortage of veterinarians.

1) RISING COSTS

Pet owners nationwide face a lack of access to affordable veterinary care. A 2025 Gallup poll found that 52% of U.S. pet owners skipped or declined veterinary care due to prohibitive costs, despite 97% of these respondents saying they consider their pets their family.

At CAMP clinics, fees are, on average, 80% lower than fees at private veterinary clinics. Additionally, we offer free and even further-discounted services for families in the City of Los Angeles and Los Angeles County with the help of City vouchers and other programs. Over 70% of our clients reside in communities where the average household income is less than $40,000 annually.

Recently, a dog named Baby arrived at CAMP without an appointment. Baby had never received veterinary care and was in urgent need of medical attention, displaying symptoms of a life-threatening infection.

Our team recognized the seriousness of Baby's condition and immediately prioritized her care, and today she is healthy, loved, and back with her family.

Our new CAMP headquarters will operate seven days a week, expanding our capacity by 25% and dramatically reducing wait times. This ensures pets like Baby — and the families who love them — can receive immediate, lifesaving care.

2) VETERINARY LABOR SHORTAGE

The financial obstacles to accessing care are compounded by a veterinary labor crisis, which is profoundly impacting California's most vulnerable animals. According to a recent study commissioned by UC Davis and the San Francisco Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, more than 344,000 California shelter animals lack access to veterinary care due to staff shortages. The study also found that veterinarian shortages have increased the euthanasia of healthy and treatable animals at more than a third of California shelters. 78% of shelters are unable to provide low-cost spay/neuter or surrender-prevention resources, and preventable illnesses are rising.

To address this labor shortage, CAMP launched the Veterinary Training Project (VTP) in 2022 to train veterinarians in high-quality, high-volume spay/neuter, routine care, and procedures for companion animals. Our RACE-certified training program provides hands-on surgical experience, scholarship opportunities, and Continuing Education credit for veterinary professionals.

The VTP provides much-needed support to the overburdened, under-resourced animal shelter system while also seeking to improve equity and diversity in the veterinary profession. More than half of our VTP's approximately 150 graduates have worked with CAMP, other nonprofits, and shelters, demonstrating the effectiveness of this program.

However, today the VTP is not centralized in one facility due to our existing clinics' space limitations. Our new HQ will include a permanent learning center for the VTP, ensuring that the program can not only run sustainably and consistently, but also expand capacity for training.

CAMP's Solution

CAMP HQ will expand access to care, train the next generation of veterinarians, and ensure no family is forced to choose between their pet's health and their finances.

01 Immediate Impact on LA's Spay/Neuter Crisis

- Establish a high-volume spay/neuter training facility.
- Fix an estimated 8,000 dogs and cats annually.
- Expand our reach in the community to provide direct support to dogs and cats, reducing accidental litters and alleviating suffering.

02 Expand Access to Care in Central Los Angeles

- Bring community medicine directly to pets in need.
- Provide low- and no-cost spay/neuter and community animal medicine services to approximately 20,000 dogs and cats a year.

03 Build a Center of Excellence & Change

- Continue grassroots advocacy and help remove systemic barriers to veterinary care on a city-wide level.
- Establish a community resource center with programming and learning opportunities for community members

04 Ensure Sustainable Investment

- Implement a replicable and sustainable model of high-quality, high-volume spay/neuter (HQHVSN) and expanded community medicine services to increase access to high-quality veterinary care.

EQUITABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS

CAMP is committed to executing this building project with core equitable values guiding our every decision. This commitment will determine all phases including pre-development, construction, building operations, and a commitment to long term community well being.

Please see the Appendix to learn more about our Philosophy and Commitment to the communities we serve.

Campaign Goal $6,000,000

REMAINING BUILDOUT/SETUP COST $2,600,000

We have secured the necessary funds ($3,400,000) for the purchase and initial build-out of our HQ.

However, we still need to raise an additional $2,600,000 to cover essential expenses such as design and construction, purchasing state-of-the-art veterinary equipment, computers and software systems, veterinary medicine supplies, operational start-up costs, and community outreach efforts.

Together, let's
build a healthier,
safer Los Angeles for pets and the people who love them.

FAQs

Here are answers to common questions you may have.

Who is CAMP?

Community Animal Medicine Project (CAMP) is Southern California's largest non-profit veterinary organization providing affordable veterinary services throughout Los Angeles since 2007.

What does CAMP do?

We operate six low-cost, high-volume spay/neuter and community medicine clinics and two mobile clinics that bring veterinary services directly to communities in need. Additionally, we operate the Veterinary Training Project (VTP), a RACE accredited program that trains veterinarians in high-quality high-volume spay/neuter surgical and clinical techniques.

- We provide quality, affordable veterinary care to community members who are unable to access essential veterinary care due to cost, among other barriers.
- We increase access to care by providing flexible scheduling, tele-health options, translation and interpreter services, assistance with clinic entry, low-barrier application and payment processes, and materials for Spanish-speaking and visually impaired individuals.
- We foster a welcoming environment for community members of all backgrounds through inclusive language, universal design practices, cultural competency, and staff diversity.

What is the organization's annual budget?

CAMP's annual operating budget is $11.9M for 2026.

What are the sources of revenue and what is the portion of the budget that goes to administration?

Approximately 80% of our budget is earned from clinic revenue and 20% comes from individual and foundation contributions. We received state funded grants for our Veterinary Training Project. Our administrative costs make up approximately 12% of our budget.

What are the results?

Since opening our doors in 2007, our team has spayed and neutered over 350,000 dogs and cats, preventing the birth of millions of puppies and kittens, thus significantly reducing pet homelessness and euthanasia.

Annually, our community animal medicine veterinary programs serve over 95,000 cats and dogs.

CAMP's high-quality, low-cost veterinary services have played a crucial role in cutting animal shelter euthanasia rates in Los Angeles by half.

Why does CAMP need a new clinic?

The demand for CAMP services has surged by over 100% in the past five years, resulting in long wait times for appointments and guiding our efforts to expand availability and serve more pets in need. The high cost of veterinary care remains a significant hurdle for pet owners seeking treatment for their beloved dogs and cats.

Over 70% of our clients live in communities where household incomes, on average, are below $40,000 annually. Establishing a new clinic is vital to ensuring more families can access the care their pets need and reduce surrender at shelters.

Plus, an additional clinic will allow us to provide increased spay/neuter services through our contracts with the City and County of Los Angeles.

How will owning a building improve services?

Owning our own building will provide stability and security. We can confidently invest in an owned, permanent building and its infrastructure to ensure that we are able to offer the best quality care to the pets and families.

FAQs continued...

Why $6 million?

Our $6 million campaign goal reflects the full investment needed to bring CAMP HQ to life and ensure its long-term success. This includes the cost of the facility, architectural design, engineering, permits, construction, essential medical equipment and medicine, community outreach, and project contingencies.

Thanks to the generosity of early supporters, we have already raised more than $3.4 million.

CAMP Program Areas

CAMP's comprehensive approach to animal welfare consists of five key program areas:

1 - High Volume Spay /Neuter

When CAMP was founded in 2007, over 15,000 cats and dogs were euthanized in LA City shelters each year. Thanks to efforts from CAMP and other like-minded organizations, LA Animal Services' save rate increased from 57.7% in 2011 to 89.2% in 2021. CAMP continues to contribute to reducing euthanasia rates by offering affordable spay/neuter in Los Angeles. Since CAMP opened our doors, we have spayed/neutered over 350,000 dogs and cats.

2 - Access to Care

Studies have shown 1/3 of pets experience financial barriers to vet care and nearly 70% of pets living in poverty will never be seen by a vet. CAMP charges approximately 80% less than private veterinary clinics, dramatically increasing access to routine, surgical, and spay/neuter care. Thanks to CAMP, Los Angeles families have a safety net for their furry family members.

3 - Low Cost Vaccine Clinics

Vaccinating dogs and cats against infectious and life-threatening diseases is one of the most effective ways to help them live long, healthy lives. CAMP provides free and low-cost vaccinations at our clinics. Our mobile clinics are essential for this work and bring services directly to communities in need, as well as routine wellness services such as microchipping, deworming, and flea/tick treatment.

4 - Animal Welfare Advocacy

CAMP is a leading voice in advocating for increased funding from Los Angeles to ensure that our city's shelters are appropriately staffed and that our city's voucher programs are sufficiently funded, a key tool in helping historically excluded families access care.

5 - Veterinary Training Project

CAMP is working to address the veterinary shortage through our Veterinary Training Project which trains veterinary professionals in high-quality, high-volume spay/neuter and routine veterinary care to fill a veterinarian shortage, especially in animal shelters.

CAMP Team

As an organization, we are a reflection of the communities we serve. We are proud to be a women and majority BIPOC-lead organization, employing a majority bilingual, Spanish speaking staff of 75 full time employees. Our diverse Board of Directors hails from a range of professions including animal welfare, IT, the arts, finance and public law and advocacy, all with the shared trait of a deep understanding of importance the human/animal bond can provide.
